

PROCLAIM

ANNUAL REPORT 2025

Dear Fellow Kingdom Worker,

Each spring, as a ministry, we pause to pray, seek the Lord's guidance, and carefully plan for the year ahead. We ask, "How can we best fulfill the mission that God has placed on the hearts of Bible League Canada donors, supporters, Board, volunteers, and staff?"

We do our part — acting in obedience to His leading, we prayerfully lay out thoughtful strategies, trusting that God will work through it all. Time and again, He has, often in ways we didn't anticipate.

At times, our goals have been cautious and God has expanded the scope and vision in His perfect timing. We've also faced detours that turned into unexpected blessings. And often, we simply step back in awe and gratitude at what only God could have accomplished.

This 2025 Annual Report is far more than a summary of numbers and stories; it is a proclamation of the faithfulness of our God.

We give thanks and praise, just as Isaiah 12:4 urges: "Give praise to the Lord, proclaim his name; make known among the nations what he has done, and proclaim that his name is exalted."

I'm deeply grateful for the committed leaders — local champions — who faithfully minister in communities in 50 nations that so desperately need to hear the life-transforming Word of God. I'm also thankful for you and your commitment to the mission of equipping and encouraging them through your support. Most of all, I thank God for His presence, which is evident every day through this work.

With deep gratitude for your partnership in the Gospel,

Thank you for your prayers and support!

You equip and train local believers worldwide to fulfill the Great Commission. It's local people who best understand and love their local communities.

That's why for over 60 years, Bible League Canada has done missions differently.

Around the world, local Christians — champions — are trained and equipped to start new churches and reach people in their own communities through adult and children's ministries, even in countries where it is dangerous to be a Christian.

This New Testament approach to spreading the Gospel has reached millions in 50 countries and built thriving churches and communities. By God's grace, you make this possible.

You place Bibles in the hands of those who need it most, through trained local champions.

You are fulfilling your Great Commission calling!

"Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit..."

MATTHEW 28:19 NIV

Ministry starts with God's Word — the Bible

ADULT MINISTRY

Literacy and Biblical literacy are important to reading and understanding the Word of God. Discipling adults in the Word of God is vital to their spiritual growth and key to understanding and applying God's will for their lives.

Local champions open the Bible to lead men and women to the truths in God's Word through literacy classes, Bible study groups, and prison ministry.

CHILDREN'S MINISTRY

Trained local champions introduce children to the love of Jesus Christ through Bible clubs, vacation Bible school, summer camps, and even partnership with national governments to work in existing public education systems.

When children meet Jesus, their hearts are transformed. And best of all, they take their new Bible and the life-giving message of Jesus Christ home to their families!

PERSECUTED CHURCH MINISTRY

Believers in countries where it is dangerous to be a Christian ask for Bibles and our prayers. The Living Word of God builds up communities of oppressed believers to strengthen their resolve, and equip them to share the Gospel with others.

In the midst of persecution, there is tremendous victory as the Gospel is shared and many come to know the hope and comfort of Jesus Christ as their Lord and Saviour.

STARTING NEW CHURCHES

By equipping Christian leaders with steady access to Bibles and training, local champions work to transform their own communities from the inside out.

With genuine faith and deep love for their neighbours, these local champions can spark powerful movements within their communities. These men and women receive mentorship from experienced leaders, tools for sharing God's Word, and hands-on guidance to start local churches where there are currently none.

Boasting in the Lord

Refugee camps in Uganda continue to receive a steady influx of people fleeing ongoing conflict and instability in Sudan, particularly from the Darfur and Khartoum regions. The camps, including large settlements like Gorom and Rhino Camp, are under immense pressure, with overcrowding, limited resources, and insufficient access to clean water, food, and healthcare. Many refugees arrive traumatized, having lost family members or having been exposed to violence, and children are especially vulnerable. You might say this is a less than ideal place to start a church, but that is exactly what Elbager is doing — building community and hope, one person at a time.

"My name is Elbager, aged 45 years. I love and serve Jesus Christ as my personal Saviour. I fled from my home country due to the conflict which erupted in April 2023.

Soon after, I attended the training to start new churches, in the settlement at Gorom Refugee Camp. I had an opportunity to establish a new church, and then another, and serve as the pastor. We have a total of 170 members who worship the Lord!

The refugee population here is about 22,000 who fled from the Darfur Region, of which many are Muslim.

I have seen the impact of the church starting program in the refugee camps. As a result of the training program, I was able to do more outreach and raising up of leaders, and the number of new believers increased from 60 to almost 600 in a period of six months! I trained 145 new church planters who were former Muslims.

Out of all these refugees, I am hopeful that most will become Christian before they return home when peace comes!"

This may seem like a boast, but Elbager is very clear about where the glory belongs: "I have seen the great impact of this training and the work the Lord is doing in the lives of refugees in the camp. All this success cannot be overstated as we face great opposition from the majority population in the camp! They see conversion to Christianity as being punishable by death!

In April, what appeared to be an assassination attempt took place in our community. One of our strong leaders was attacked and shot by an unknown assailant while he was in prayer in the church. It was truly God's providential power that saved him from instant death with no bones broken in his body after nine bullets were fired at him. His story is now a powerful testimony and a great encouragement to all."

Elbager proclaims the Lord's goodness to all who will listen, "I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to God for the work He is doing among the refugees in the camp. I pray that this training continues to strengthen the believers to disciple other new believers for the church to grow."

Learning to Lead

LIFT Church exists to see people made fully alive in the hope of Jesus by being the church on every college and university campus. Through your support, new leaders are trained, providing Scriptures in a safe space to study God's Word and ask questions.

Caleb is a member of LIFT church, serving in Hamilton, Ontario. He writes this testimony: "You don't always need to be the second man'. That is what God has been teaching me lately. But let me explain...

I moved around a lot growing up, so much of my early life was just me and God. My parents instilled a strong work ethic in me from a young age — chores in elementary school, making lunches in high school, cooking full meals during COVID-19. I learned that hard work mattered.

But somewhere between high school and university, I started comparing myself to others, especially in academics and athletics. I developed this belief that hard work should equal perfection. So when I started falling short, I just pushed harder. By my third year, I hit a low point in my faith. I didn't know how to reconnect with God.

I went to my pastor and asked him how to start talking with God again. He encouraged me to serve. That's when I joined the setup team at church — and something began to shift.

My first time serving was at our church's annual conference. It was intense, but it sent me on a journey of discovering how God moves through service. Serving felt like a safe place to reconnect because it wasn't about achieving — it was about showing up and doing something for Him.

The more I served, the more I was surrounded by people who genuinely loved Jesus. My faith began to grow again, not through perfection, but through presence and obedience. My pastor was right: serving helped rebuild my faith, not by doing everything perfectly, but by working hard for Jesus.

I often connect life to stories and movie themes. In a lot of them, the hero has a reliable second-in-command — the one who always shows up and gets the job done. I wanted to be that guy. And for a while, I was. Serving was good for my soul. But a few months ago, I realized I was on a plateau. I was working hard, but not growing.

At church, we talk a lot about multiplication — empowering new leaders. With encouragement, I stepped into new roles: first setup lead, then driving the truck, and now serving as senior lead for the region. I didn't think I'd lead again after high school, but God had other plans.

God doesn't always call you to stay the second man. Sometimes He calls you to step out, to lead, to multiply. Now, even at my summer job, I'm being stretched to teach and raise others up.

If I could leave just one encouragement, especially for students, it's this: take a step into serving today. Now is the perfect time. God can use it to change your life and your heart — just like He did with mine."

- Caleb

Building Community

"The King will reply, 'Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.'"

MATTHEW 25:40 NIV

As the war continued in Ukraine, Liliya was forced to flee her home and relocate to Truskavets, in the Lviv region. Despite the trauma of displacement, Liliya carried with her a deep desire to continue serving God — especially in the children's ministry, as she had faithfully done in her home church.

Liliya

Liliya had been involved in children's ministry and, thanks to your support, had received training to lead Bible study groups with non-believers. When she prayed for new opportunities to serve in her new surroundings, the Lord opened her eyes to the needs of other displaced families — especially children.

These children, uprooted from their homes, were struggling to adapt. Many had endured deep trauma and now faced challenges in school, few friends, isolation, and growing aggression. Their parents, overwhelmed with rebuilding — searching for work, securing documents, and finding housing — were unable to support their children academically or emotionally.

Several times a week, Liliya, leading a team of young believers, volunteered to help schoolchildren with homework, to explain difficult lessons, and simply to listen to them. Over time, something beautiful happened — the atmosphere began to change. The children's behaviour softened, and their hearts opened. Questions about God, sin, and forgiveness emerged naturally in conversations.

Recognizing this spiritual hunger, Liliya began searching for Bible materials suitable for children from non-Christian families. As the children began to read and study the Bible, their transformation was impossible to ignore. Cursing stopped. Conflicts among teens lessened. Some youth, just 13 or 14 years old, even asked for prayers to quit smoking. The Holy Spirit was quietly but powerfully at work.

A children's Bible study in Ukraine

Parents began asking: "What are you doing with our children? They're changing!" Some parents began attending the worship services. For many, it was their first time stepping into a Christian gathering.

At first, local churches had struggled to connect with the displaced families, unable to fully grasp the depth of their trauma. But as more displaced people began attending services, believers in local churches began to awaken. They started engaging practically and spiritually, offering more than just sympathy — offering community. A new ministry team was formed to minister to the spiritual needs of displaced adults through Bible studies.

Neighbours, many of them non-believers, also began to get involved. They helped with repairs, drove families to affordable grocery and hardware stores, and even donated food and supplies.

One non-Christian neighbour said, "We can see this church really loves people. They care. Living next to them, our children now see what real compassion and neighbourly love look like."

This is the power of proclaiming the Gospel: not just changing individual lives, but reshaping entire communities with hope, compassion, and restoration. Through the faithfulness of one woman and the open-hearted service of a few believers, a displaced and hurting community has begun to experience the love of Christ in action.

Praise God for the visible fruit of His love in Truskavets!

Dear Fellow Worker in Christ,

In April of 2025, soon after the earthquake struck areas of South East Asia, our team was able to have a virtual call with our local partner in Myanmar. Through photos and stories, he shared with us the devastation he was witnessing. It was heart-wrenching.

It struck me that, while many were fleeing the destruction, our partner was actually going to the epicentre, not away from it! Despite hardship and incredible challenges, his purpose was clear — to continue proclaiming God's Word. He cannot be silent. He is determined to live out his calling to share the Gospel message of Jesus Christ. On that day, it was a cup of cold water and a helping hand to someone in need, delivered by a servant of God.

This situation is emblematic of each of our partners, being compelled by the power and equipping of the Holy Spirit to proclaim our Lord despite circumstances. They cannot be silenced. In Luke 19, the Pharisees demand that Jesus silence those who were joyfully praising God for the miracles they had seen, and Jesus replies, "...if they keep quiet, the stones will cry out." There is no binding the Word of God. Not persecution, not earthquakes, and certainly not the plans of the world. Praise will be given to the Lord, and His name will be proclaimed!

"Now to him who is able to do immeasurably more than all we ask or imagine, according to his power that is at work within us, to him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus throughout all generations, for ever and ever! Amen."

EPHESIANS 3:20–21 NIV

It has brought me so much joy to reflect on the fact that the voices proclaiming Jesus are getting louder — 121,799 leaders and teachers trained this year! 8,786 churches started, 127,438 baptisms, and 3,649,326 Scriptures placed in this year alone!

And by the power of Him who is the source and object of our praise, 725,812 people became followers of Jesus through our ministry programs this year! Our faithful partners continue to work with focus and passion, finding new ways to reach their own communities for Christ.

While there is still so much work to do, I am very excited to share these ministry results with you. It is my prayer that you are encouraged by them, knowing that God has worked in your heart and through our partners to do amazing and transformative things. It is all for His glory, and that His name may be proclaimed!

Serving and proclaiming Christ with you,

From Chaos to Peace

Neelakshi had the perfect life. Married to a military man, she had everything she could dream of — a devoted husband, two bright daughters pursuing their education, and a home that was loving and secure. She thanked her ancestral deity daily for the blessings her family enjoyed.

One day, Neelakshi got a call that changed her life. Her husband, Gagandeep, had been in an accident, leaving his right leg and hand shattered. After several surgeries with minimal results, the doctors told Neelakshi that her husband would be bedridden for the rest of his life.

Neelakshi

The family's life came to a halt. The accident forced Gagandeep to resign his position, and Neelakshi was left to run her household on his small pension. While she cared for her bedridden husband and tended her home, she worried about their drained savings and her daughters' futures. She began to feel hopeless.

In desperation, she performed countless rituals and prayers, yearning for a miracle. Months passed with no improvement, and emptiness consumed her. Why had her gods allowed this to happen?

Soon after, Neelakshi met a local champion named Chaitanya, who had been trained and equipped to reach out to her community thanks to your support. When Chaitanya shared the Gospel with her, Neelakshi was struck by the powerful words of love from God, and she started to wonder: If she called on Jesus, what would happen?

Gagandeep was outraged. He despised Christianity and warned his wife against praying to Jesus. “What harm is there in trying this?” Neelakshi argued, “If you are healed, we all benefit. If not, we lose nothing.”

Seeing that he wouldn't win, Gagandeep held his tongue. Neelakshi started to attend prayer meetings and read the Bible, and she was shocked to find the Word of God convicting her in ways that had nothing to do with her husband's injury. The message of hope took root in her heart, and her faith, which had only been for Gagandeep's healing, became personal.

Months later, Neelakshi knew that she needed to follow Jesus with her whole heart. Where there had been emptiness, peace reigned, and she prayed for the Holy Spirit's presence.

One day while she was praying, Gagandeep rose from his bed — unaided — and walked toward her. Overwhelmed, Neelakshi realized that the God she loved had answered her prayers!

But Gagandeep's body was not finished healing. He realized that God loved him too, despite his hatred, and his heart softened. Over time, he embraced Jesus as his Saviour, and the couple began to walk in peace together.

Soon after, their daughters began to follow Jesus. They had witnessed the power of prayer, and they saw the difference between their mother's past and present joy. Despite their relatives feeling they had betrayed their traditional beliefs, Neelakshi, Gagandeep, and their daughters remain steadfast in their faith.

Multiplying Impact —

Ventanilla, Peru, with large industrial areas and poverty-stricken shantytowns, can be a risky place to live, but this is where José grew up, in a Christian home. When he was a teenager, he found himself in the wrong crowd and drifted away from his faith. When he almost fatally hurt a friend, that moment of shock and desperation shook him to his core. José turned back to God and discovered a renewed purpose and direction for his life.

Since then, José has served God wholeheartedly. Now, as the pastor of a church, he wanted to see it grow, but he wasn't sure of the way forward.

"For years, I longed to see our church grow and multiply, but I didn't know how it would happen," José explains. "I felt the desire, but the path was unclear."

Then he was invited to join the training to start new churches, made possible through your support. "This training has been a key for us as it has helped us structure and organize our discipleship and church starting process clearly and effectively. We now have a framework that allows us to reach more people with the Gospel and ensure they are properly disciplined. It has guided us through each step of starting new churches, helping us lay a solid foundation for growth and sustainability. We can approach multiplying our church with confidence and purpose, seeing a greater impact in our community and beyond."

Recently, José's church was able to start two new daughter churches, a significant milestone in the ministry of this church. "Now we are focused on strengthening these new churches, ensuring they are rooted in faith and equipped to grow," José says. "Our goal is to continue expanding the Kingdom, proclaiming Christ to more people, and seeing lives transformed through the Gospel."

The congregation was motivated to make a real impact in the community. "We gathered members of our congregation who work in the health sector and began organizing medical campaigns," José explains. "During these events, we not only provide medical care, but also pray for the sick and share the Good News of Jesus Christ."

Next was a community kitchen. "60 children receive free meals throughout the week," José says. "On Saturdays, they come to church, attend the Bible school for kids, and go home after having lunch."

Then the children's ministry program, leading to adult Bible studies: "We began by holding meetings with the children, bringing aid and small gifts to those in greatest need, and of course, talking to them about the Word of God," José says. "Their parents have been led to Christ, and now we have groups of parents who are studying the Bible!"

José and his congregation are meeting the physical and spiritual needs of their community. "We are excited for the future and are confident that, with God's guidance, we will continue to multiply and make an even greater impact."

Proclaiming God's Goodness

For most of her life, Win, a 45-year-old woman from Myanmar, had considered Christians foolish. As a devout Buddhist her whole life, she believed Buddhism was the highest and holiest path. She had no respect for Christians.

Win's life began to unravel when she was diagnosed with an incurable cancer. The pain in her abdomen was intense. She was unable to walk or carry out her daily tasks, and her body felt like it was giving up.

Added to that, Win had another battle — one she never thought she could overcome. She had chewed medicinal betel for over 20 years. Betel is the leaf of an Asian evergreen climbing plant that is often used as a mild stimulant. Even though her tongue developed blisters and showed signs of oral cancer, she couldn't stop. When someone asked her, "If you had to leave either your husband or your betel, which one would it be?" Win answered without hesitation: "My husband." That was the grip it had on her.

One day, when her pain-wracked body was too weak to move, a local champion named Saya and his team visited her village. They felt led to stop at her house — though they had no idea what was waiting behind her door.

Saya had once been like Win. A Buddhist. A skeptic. It was because of this shared history that Win allowed him to come in and pray for her. She had previously refused offers from other pastors, assuming they couldn't understand her or her beliefs. But this man — he was Burmese, like her. He knew where she came from.

As Saya prayed, something happened. Win felt warmth flood her heart — something she couldn't describe. It wasn't just physical warmth. It was love. A kind of love she had never experienced before.

Tears rolled down her face. She felt a warm sensation move down her body, straight toward her abdomen. That's when she knew she had been healed. From that moment, everything changed.

She stood up. She could walk. She felt strength returning. She started doing her house chores — chores that had been impossible just the day before. And even more shocking, the urge to chew betel had disappeared. Completely. For the first time in more than 20 years, she didn't crave it. Even her blistered tongue felt different.

It was a miracle!

Over the next two days, Win invited Saya to stay at her house. He spent time with her family, sharing the Gospel and explaining salvation through Jesus Christ.

Win, her husband, and their four children all realized together: they needed Jesus. They were baptized and began a new life as a family devoted to Christ.

Win attending a Bible study

Now, she's attending a 40-day discipleship training, along with her husband and her four children. Her heart burns to serve the Lord.

Reading in her new Bible, made possible through your support, she pauses over the story of the woman with the issue of blood in Mark 5. That woman suffered for 12 years. Win suffered for over 20 — with addiction and cancer. But just like the woman who touched Jesus' garment, Win was healed by simply coming near to His presence. She hadn't even believed yet when He healed her!

She wasn't healed because she believed. She was healed because of God's love and His goodness.

Win is not the same woman who once mocked Christians. She's a living witness that no heart is too hard, no addiction too deep, no sickness too strong for Jesus.

*"Praise the Lord, my soul, and forget not all his benefits—
who forgives all your sins and heals all your diseases..."*

PSALM 103:2-3

Dear Co-labourer in Christ,

We began our 2024-2025 fiscal year with ambitious goals for both ministry and fundraising. As we prayerfully set these goals, we knew that without the Lord's leading and strength, we were inadequate to fulfill them. This position is humbling, but by keeping our eyes focused on our Saviour, and through the faithful support from donors like you and ministry partners around the globe, together we were able to succeed in significant ways this year. I am excited to proclaim these successes with confidence.

From a fundraising revenue perspective, through careful, prayerful planning and execution of strategies, by God's grace, the highest total contributions of any fiscal year in Bible League Canada's history were achieved. This was especially important this year — God-ordained even — as our BFM Thrift Store contributions again saw significant resources diverted toward debt-repayment initiatives for driving long-term and sustainable growth in that revenue stream.

On the ministry expenditure side, the revenue achieved helped facilitate consistent international ministry funding as planned, and even allowed for targeted, regional expansion to be executed. We give thanks for and celebrate the progress made in moving this kingdom-focused agenda forward through all of our long-standing and trusted strategic partnerships. With an eye to efficiency of resources and maximization of ministry impact, we continue to evaluate new ministry partnership opportunities the Lord brings forward.

I rejoice in the positive story that has unfolded within this ministry this last fiscal year and have deep gratitude for the significant part you played in the successful execution of the 2025 ministry results and financial goals.

As this year unfolded, it was obvious God was doing something unique and special, through you, and through this organization, but in His power and timing alone, and so we give HIM all the praise and all the glory!

In His Name,

Dear Bible League Canada Supporter,

We recognize daily that the centre of everything we do is Jesus.

God's faithfulness has been evident throughout this past year as we have engaged in strategic organizational transformation. Each decision was prayerfully and carefully made to increase our local and global impact, all the while strengthening our joint ministry with Bible League Canada.

Increasing operational efficiency and long-term sustainability was a key focus for 2024. We continued to make significant progress in our organizational restructuring and Promissory Note Debt Elimination Plan. With the repayment plan in place, targeting full debt elimination by December 31, 2027, substantial interest savings have already been achieved.

2025 has been a year of reduced speed on growth and development. A specific target of All Stores Thriving is being moved forward through what we call 'wraparound support' for stores. Individualized support is being provided, with 10 stores identified for tailored action plans to guide regional performance.

Even with the slowing of growth, recent store relocations and openings included a new location in Summerside PEI, and Ponoka AB relocated earlier this year.

	52 Mission Thrift Stores
	5,700 Volunteers and Staff

A highlight this year: through creative engagement from our Marketing Team, the Community Baton Relay Initiative is symbolically connecting the stores across Canada, fostering unity and visibility through social media. A bright green baton is being passed from Store to Store, making its way across Canada. The final destination is London, ON for our Annual General Meeting and Conference in 2026!

As partners in our amazing joint ministry, we celebrate our combined efforts. Within the context of the Mission Thrift Stores and the local communities they serve, and with Scripture placement and Great Commission advancement at the heart of our collaboration, our joint ministry remains foundational to our mission. We are so very grateful to travel this road together!
